

Social Caption Drafts — The Nauti Yacht

Draft only. Nothing here has been posted. Review, edit the bracketed bits, then paste into Blotato (or native apps) per platform.

Why this exists: almost every recent IG/TikTok post is captioned only `#TheNautiYacht` — those posts get near-zero engagement. The one exception, the July 9 IG collab with @thaj_realtorhtx (geotagged "Lake Conroe," real written caption, listing-style structure with emojis/bullets/CTA), pulled 88 likes / 21 comments — 20-40x every other post. That post's structure (hook line !' concrete detail !' clear CTA !' mixed local/niche hashtags) is the model used below. You also confirmed you've been copy-pasting one caption across Facebook/Instagram/TikTok — every caption below is written fresh per platform instead.

Source material used: live copy from thenautiyacht.com (package descriptions, boat names/capacities, pricing) and the real captioned photos/clips already listed in the site's own Gallery section (used verbatim as scene references below so captions match what's actually posted). See verification notes at the bottom for what I could and couldn't confirm directly on each platform.

How to use this doc

- `[bracketed text]` = fill in before posting (date, guest names, specific clip).
 - Every package has three caption blocks: Instagram / TikTok / Facebook. They are NOT the same text reworded — tone, length, and CTA differ per platform on purpose.
 - Geotag reminder appears on every Instagram block — this was the single biggest lever in the July 9 post.
 - Hashtags are suggestions; trim to what's true for the actual post (don't tag #GlowParty on a daytime tubing post, etc.)

6. Boatz & Glowz

Real gallery scenes to reference: The fleet, lit up for Boatz & Glowz; Glowing all night long; Glow sticks and good vibes; Glow foam party at night; Lighting up Party Cove after dark.

Note: per the site, this is a once (now twice)-a-year event — the May 2026 date already happened, and the only remaining date this year is September 19, 2026. Use these captions to build hype ahead of that date, not as an evergreen template.

Instagram

Mark it down: Boatz & Glowz is back September 19. 🌊 🌊 The entire Nauti Yacht fleet, out together, lighting up Party Cove after dark — this only happens twice a year.

8. Gap-Fill / Evergreen Posts (for days with no bookings)

Purpose: on a day like August 15 (an actual example of a day the account posted only "#TheNautiYacht" with nothing behind it), post one of these instead — built from real existing gallery content, clearly framed as a throwback so it doesn't read as a booking that didn't happen. Rotate through these five; each pulls from a real captioned photo/clip already grouped on the site's own Gallery section.

Gap-fill #1 — "Carving up the wake" (Tubing/Wakeboarding gallery)

Verification notes — what I confirmed directly vs. couldn't

Confirmed directly:

- Full site copy for all packages, pricing, boat names/capacities, and the Yolo Lake Conroe wake-surf partnership — pulled live from thenautiyachti.com.
- The site's own Gallery section lists real, already-captioned photos/clips grouped by package (e.g. "Carving up the wake," "Golden hour on the bow," "Champagne toast under the stars") — these are the exact references used in the gap-fill section above, so those recycled posts point at content that verifiably exists.
- The July 9 Instagram post (instagram.com/thaj_realtorhtx/reel/DalfW7xval4/): confirmed 88 likes, 21 comments, geotagged "Lake Conroe," posted July 9. Note — this post is actually a real-estate open-house listing by the realtor, with The Nauti Yachti credited as the sponsoring boat ("Boat provided & sponsored by: The Nauti Yachti"), not a Nauti Yachti-authored charter post. The caption structure (hook line !' concrete detail/bullets !' clear CTA !' mixed local + niche hashtags) is what these drafts borrow, not the real-estate content itself.
- Confirmed at least one recent Nauti Yachti IG post (July 5 reel) and one recent Facebook post (August 15) captioned only "#TheNautiYachti" — matches the audit finding.
- Confirmed TikTok bio is currently blank ("No bio yet"), consistent with the pending bio suggestion in Step 4.

Could not verify directly:

- Instagram and TikTok both block deeper scrolling/browsing of the full post grid without a logged-in session — I could only load the first few grid items per profile (the site's own read-only sharing didn't allow pagination past ~5 posts). So the captions above are built from the real site copy and the real gallery photo captions, not from viewing every individual recent post's visual content. Before posting, sanity-check each draft against the specific photo/video you're actually pairing it with.
- I did not open individual TikTok video pages (thumbnails didn't render without login), so TikTok on-screen-text suggestions are stylistic recommendations rather than tied to a specific existing clip.
- Guest names, specific dates, and specific outing details are left as `[bracketed placeholders]` throughout — I did not have access to booking records to fill these in.
